When I woke up this morning, I didn't know how bad it'd get Shouldn'a listened to my voicemail, shouldn'a logged on to the net
Shouldn'a waded through all that email, shouldn'a turned on the TV
'Cause its getting to me baby, it's pretty plain to see

Bb

I need some downtime, I got sensory overload

F

I need some downtime, To restore my achin' soul

C

Bb

I need some downtime, Gotta halt my CPU

F

Need some downtime baby, To spend alone with you

Well I drove down to my job, listening to the radio
Spent all day watchin' the clock, just wishin' I could go
When I tried to head for home, there was mandatory overtime
Now I'm bustin' at the seams, trying to keep from cryin'...

refrain, then instrumental over verse and refrain

While I was settin' down to dinner, phone's ringing off the hook
If the subject's Interruptions, man, I could write the book
Shoulda turned off all the lights, I shoulda gone to bed Shoulda done a full shutdown, to save my achin' head...

refrain
