Key: G
Composer(s): David Graybeard

start vocals immediately

G D Em Bm
I remember, back in the day
C Bm Am D
You used to sing whenever I'd play
G D Em Bm
I didn't know then, I didn't understand
C Bm Am D
That love can be fragile, takes a steady hand
C D
But I know that now
C D
I can see that now
C D G
I can feel it now... with this broken heart

instrumental over first two lines of verse, then vocal refrain again

A woman's love, can be a mirror of truth
A perfect reflection, constant and smooth
If you're not careful, shards of glass Will cut you deeply, with your shattered past refrain

instrumental over first two lines of verse, then vocal refrain again

A man's love, can be simple and free
It can blow with the wind, it can burrow down deep
But it can stray, now and again Leaving shattered glass, everywhere its been refrain

slow to end on last words of refrain
