

How Far

BMI: 79740977

Key: Am
Composer(s): David Graybeard

C The coral of the sunset, Em is splashed across the sky
F I see it through the window pane, G because I have the time
C The lights are all turned down, Em the silence is a lie
F Somewhere in the larger world, G there must be signs of life
I count my breaths, I feel my pulse, not sure I am alive
All it takes to know for sure is the focus of my mind
With a sudden flush of feeling, I see it all unwind
Nothing I can do for now, I'm stranded out of time

F And I wonder, G just how far Am this goes
F How much farther can I G wander on this Am road
F How much more can I G ever get to Am know
G If anything can ever be Am foretold

The clockwork in my head, ticks and tocks aloud
Hydraulic blood is pumped, to flow within its bounds
I run outside and suck cool air, into waiting lungs
My arms are wide my eyes are closed, to the last rays of the sun refrain

I stumble and I fall, upon my hands and knees
My head is raised, my hair falls back, and my lidded eyes can see
The painted sky, the world outside, the pumping of my heart
They all are a part of me, unwitting works of art
