instrumental over first line

I took a walk in the woods, in the first week of May Green dappled sunlight, fluttered all around
There was a coldness and a dampness that lingered
On the palms of my hands as I leaned back on the ground
Sanity, sanctity, serenely simple
And the birds practiced singing songs from their hymnal (x2)

I took a walk in the woods, in the last days of August
It's hot breath embraced me, as I kicked up some dust
A flicker was pecking at the somnolent stillness
I dozed in the warmth of a rock where I stopped
Sanity, sanctity, serenely simple
And the bees hummed along to the songs in the hymnal (x2)

I took a walk in the woods at the end of October
Wading in shallows of leaves on the ground
Breath floating cold in the first hour of morning
I startled a whitetail and her new fawn
Sanity, sanctity, serenely simple
Leaves shuffling rhythm to songs from the hymnal (x2)

I took a walk in the woods in the last weeks of winter
A heavy flaked snowfall was muffling the world
Ice crackling sharply under my booted footsteps
Lonesome and jagged, the only sound to be heard
Sanity, sanctity, serenely simple
I heard in my mind all the songs from the hymnal (x2)
